Internet searches generally result in a mix of search results from a variety of websites. It is a common misconception that you should search only your local area. You should take into account your search results that are grouped from search engines such as Google, Yahoo, Bing and other search engines. One of the most prominent “misconceptions” is that you should search only your local area. We recommend to search by categories like “Electronics Stores” or “Online Stores”. Although you can only search your local area, you can broaden your search by including all search results that come up in your search. Read
