Efficacy of fusidic acid for oral streptococci: a quantitative analysis of in vitro susceptibility. The in vitro activity of fusidic acid against Streptococcus pyogenes, Streptococcus pneumoniae, S. mutans, and Streptococcus sanguis was evaluated by the micro-titer method. The activity of fusidic acid against oral streptococci was similar to that previously reported for streptococci from pharyngotonsillar sites. Within each organism, the minimum inhibitory concentration (MIC) for fusidic acid was at least eight times higher for aerobic than anaerobic organisms. For most aerobic organisms, the MIC for fusidic acid was between 0.25 and 1 microgram/ml, which compares favorably with that reported for other penicillins. The MIC50 for each aerobic organism was within 1 log₂ dilution of the MIC90. The MIC90 for S. pneumoniae was 2 micrograms/ml. The MIC90 for S. mutans and S. sanguis was 16 micrograms/ml. These results are consistent with the bactericidal action of fusidic acid and the relatively high frequency of this organism in diseased areas of the oral cavity. A preliminary study of 50 children showed fusidic acid to be well tolerated. Google is showing ads for Myntra in the search results. Alicia Keys Strips Down With Pizzazz to Show Support to Undocumented Workers Alicia Keys gets her 'hood on for Equal Pay Day in New York City Alicia Keys took to the streets of New York City on Thursday, April 10, to honor Equal Pay Day. The singer/songwriter, who has worked with immigrant and undocumented women throughout her career, was joined by a group of women who showed up in various versions of their very own "hoods"—like the mother of all street styles—to help raise awareness about women's wage gap and celebrate Equal Pay Day. "Now more than ever, it is important to really take a stand," Keys, 40, said in a statement. "Let's make sure women and men are paid equally for their work. Let's fight for Equal Pay and for this day." The Women's March for Pay Equity, which saw over 5 million people take to the streets last month to protest attacks on women's rights and the wage gap, was founded by labor and feminist organizations, including the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union and the National Women's Law Center. In addition to the day's festivities, Keys held a press conference on Wednesday with Women's March Co-Coordinating Chair Tamika Mallory and Women's March Co-Founder Carmen Perez, who spoke about the massive turnout from participants and events that have been held across the world. "This march is not just the start of something, but it also represents a movement," Mallory told attendees. "For every march, there is a resistance and right now we are having that resistance at every single place where we are demonstrating." The singer and activists had the following to say about the pay gap: "It is not enough to have political figures sit in their office and talk about wages," Perez said. "Women need to occupy the space and demand that everybody should get paid equally for their work." "We want to continue to build on [last month's march] and make it bigger and bigger because our faith in America is in its people," Keys said. "We need to make sure that everyone's rights are protected, no matter who you are." On Thursday
